

1. What is a characteristic feature of a cause-and-effect organizational pattern in paragraph writing?

- A. Use of comparative language
- B. Chronological sequencing of events
- C. Use of phrases like "results in," "due to," and "consequently" (Correct Answer)
- D. Avoidance of transition words to emphasize clarity

2. What is the main distinction between the "Question" and "Recite" steps in SQ3R?

- A. Question involves answering questions, while Recite involves memorization
- B. Question involves generating queries about the material, while Recite involves verbalizing answers (Correct Answer)
- C. Question is done before reading, while Recite is done during reading
- D. Question is for finding definitions, while Recite is for defining terms

3. Why is the "Survey" step important in the SQ3R method?

- A. It ensures you memorize all the text immediately
- B. It provides an overview of the material before detailed reading (Correct Answer)
- C. It eliminates unnecessary sections
- D. It tests your knowledge before studying

4. What does the "Recite" step in the SQ3R method involve?

- A. Verbally summarizing key points from memory (Correct Answer)
- B. Skipping sections that seem too difficult
- C. Writing down every detail
- D. Creating a new outline of the material

5. What is the potential risk of burying the topic statement within a paragraph?

- A. It allows readers to interpret the content more freely
- B. It increases the likelihood of redundancy within the paragraph
- C. It encourages selective reading of the paragraph
- D. It can mislead readers about the main point (Correct Answer)